

ALEXANDRIA.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 12

According to the statement in contradiction of a previous report about an interview between Gen. Schofield and Mr. Boots, it would now appear that these gentlemen thick alike in pretty much all matters, of a public nature, and that Mr. Botts is consulted on subjects pertaining to "the situation," and his advice regarded with approbation. This is not according to the accounts recently put forth, and will take the people of Virginia somewhat by surprise. But, we do not know exactly, how far this may be correct, or whether it is not to be read "cum grano salis." It is proper to wait for Gen. Schofield's action. So far, he has won a favorable opinion from those over whom he has been placed as a military com-

The New York Independent, in its notice of the dry goods market for the present week, of the dullness of the market, and of the decline in the prices in most foreign and domestic cotton fabrics, says, "the Southern trade as a whole, the present season, will be very small. That from the West-our main dependencewill be much less than an average. New York State and New England have not been, thus far, much represented " The Northern dealers will find yet that in sustaining a political policy which cripples the South, they are, at the same time, injuring themselves.

The "pardons granted," are now generally accompanied with the names of those who recommend the pardons-and these are, for the most part, Radical members of Congress, who have their personal friends, or former acquaintances, or some other reason, for cause of favor. This is done to prevent the accusation against the President of "favoring prominent rebels on his own account and for his own pur But the system is not a correct one. The pardons should be granted for good cause shown, and not because applicants can obtain the recommendations of ultra Radicals.

The New York Times affirms that Lord Lyons, then British Minister at Washington, "is known to have given a promise of immediate recognition" to the Southern States, as an encouragement to form themselves into a distinct nationality; -but "proved false in the hour of trial." Query, as to any distinct promise; but that, at one time, the "recognition" was intended, by both England and France, is now almost certain. France was ready-England hung back.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Citizen, gives quite a "sensational" account of the personal appearance, and successes of a certain female lobyist, said to be well known in Washington, and about the Capitol, who has a knack of enlisting members of Con gress in support of measures in which she is interested, or for the success of which she receives a consideration from the parties who are interested. She is said to be able to control, always, quite a large vote.

In the New Jersey House of Representatives, yesterday, "on the question to strike from the constitution the word "white," to allow colored people to vote, the vote stood twenty in favor to thirty-five against striking it out Thirteen Republicans voted against it. This ends the question for this session." According to the present doctrine, therefore, New Jersey wants "reconstruction" and ought to be made a "Military District."

Wendell Phillips is advising the Radical leaders to enforce farther exactions upon the Southern States - and as the leaders, generally, in due course of time, come up to the requirements of Sumner and Wendell Phillips, we should not be at all surprised to find a new "plank" added to the "platform." Well; after all that has been done, "it can neither make nor break."

The foreign papers all mention the "preparations" for war, in case, it should come, making by the different European nations .-Every where is heard the din of the armorers manufacturing muskets and rifles, and the roar of the forges easting cannon and needle guns. Peace may be preserved, but it is a peace whore the nations stand watching each other, ready for a conflict.

According to the Washington letter writers Gen. Butler is following up his investigations into the case of Mrs. Surratt, and may have some other developments to make, besides bringing to light Booth's diary-of which the public knew not a word, until he "unearthed' it, a few weeks ago.

The Winchester Times says that among the contributors to the Southern Relief Fund in Jefferson county, Va., was Solomon Thorapson, a colored man, who subscribed 25 businels of corn. Robert Thornton, another colored man, gave a barrel of corn. These are, in the true sense, "loyal."

It is again supposed that a clue 'nas been obtained as to the body of the woman found near Richmond, at the Drink farm, in February last, and who her alleged murdereri s. The girl's name is supposed to have beer, Victoria

NEWS OF THE DAY.

'To show the very age and body of the times.'

A council was held at Fort Dodge, on the 2d ultimo, between Major Dodge and several chiefs of the Kiowas. The latter professed much friendship for the whites, and desired to be at peace with them, but stated that the Blackfeet, Sioux, Cheyennes, Arapahoes, and Comanches are determined on war, and will have it. They spoke about several Northern tribes banding together for a war, and making overtures to Southern tribes to join them, and predicting that the whites would have their hands full. The indications all favor a grand Indian confederation and a bloody war.

The Stringfellow Chapel in Petersburg, Va. used lately as a colored Church and school, was burned this week by an incendiary .-The Church and school were under the auspices of the Episcopal Church. Its loss is much regretted by the colored people, and the whites who were deeply interested in the success of the effort making to give religious instructions in the building. It will probably be rebuilt by the aid of the members of the Episcopal

Mr. Botts and General Schofield. To the Editor of the Tribune.

SIR,-Reading in the Herald of the 26th ultimo, under the head of 'Correspondence of the Herald," a statement in regard to an alleged interview between General Schofield and the Hon. John Minor Botts in Richmond, and regarding it false in every particular, I wrote to Mr. Botts to ascertain from him the true state of the case, and in reply he says: -A more mendacious production from beginning to end never issued from the pen of man.' In reference to the interview he writes: "I was specially invited by letter to call on General Schofield before I left the city, as he wanted -so the note of invitation was worded-to confer with me on many points of great interest to the State, I never had a more satis factory or pleasant interview with any gentleman in my life." During the discussion of the question of the reconstruction of the State, Mr. Botts says that "there was no one point mentioned in which there was not a hearty concurrence of views." Very respectfully yours, New York, April 4, 1867.

"RUNNING THE MACHINE." - The question of fixing upon an early day for adjournment, was discussed in the Senate, yesterday. In the course of this discussion, Mr. Fessenden remarked that he did not believe Republicans could answer to their constituencies if they went home without waiting for the vacancies to be filled. It would be no excuse to say they could not remain here.

Mr. Chandler was willing to take the re sponsibility of adjourning now. If Andrew Johnson was an obstacle in the way it would be found out by July whether or not they could run the Government without him. For himself, he would not be driven into confirming Copperheads and rebels, because otherwise the vacancies would remain unfilled.

Mr. Fessenden replied that the executive department was as much a part of the Government as the Senate, and the President had just as much right to say the Senate stood in his way as for the Senate to say he stood in their way; and as much right to say that he would find a way of running the machine without the Senate as they had to say they would find out whether they could run the machine without him. The President did not commit any impeachable offence in nominating officers; but he would if he failed to nominate them.

Escape. - The colored man, John Butler, convicted and sentenced, in the Circuit Court last week, to the Penitentiary for fourteen years, for the murder of Henry Clay Lee, made his escape from the jail of this place, on Monday night.
